

Media release: VIOR is nominated for the Design Prize Switzerland

Safenwil, 30.08.2019 – The jury of the Design Prize Switzerland nominated 44 projects in 12 categories for the most prestigious design prize in Switzerland as part of Edition 2019/20. The VIOR luminaire from RIBAG, which has already received two awards for its design, convinced the Swiss jury and received one of the coveted nominations.

From a total of 262 competition entries, 31 experts from all design disciplines selected the products and projects for nomination in an elaborate two-stage process. According to the jury, all the nominations have in common that they are above-average in terms of maturity and are an expression of a reawakened self-image. The Swiss design industry has nothing to fear from international comparison. "There is something consistent about Swiss designers. Their ambition is to make a real contribution to how we live now and in the future," says Kim Colin, American designer and member of the jury.

About VIOR

Planners, developers and designers at RIBAG spent two years of intensive development to realise their vision. The vision of combining two different lighting moods with a single LED and precise light control: brilliant direct light with room-opening indirect light. To be experienced in a product that appears stylish, restrained and timeless. The result is VIOR and surprises with a special light and room effect. The compact, sensual form blends timelessly into any interior design. The transparent materialisation is characterised by lightness, supports the architecture and sets precise, restrained accents.
